

ITALIAN KING TAKES

and when the king finally returned to headquarters he was wet through and covered with mud.

In the capture of Montebello, which dominates Lake Garda, Swiss newspapers say the Italian infantry moved forward in the moonlight from the east to the west side of the mountain. On top they surprised an Austrian garrison. After resistance, the Austrians surrendered. The Italians are continuing their advance in the Adige valley and the fight in the deep snow for the pass of Stelvio is still going on. On the Carinthian frontier the Italians are said to be holding most of the passes and strategic points.

TEN DEPUTIES GUILTY

(Associated Press Dispatch)

NEW BRUNSWICK, May 30.—Nine of the ten deputies on trial on charges of murder in having fired on a crowd of chemical plant strikers at Roosevelt in January, killing two and wounding a score of the strikers, were convicted of manslaughter. The jury had been out since Saturday. The maximum penalty is ten years.

MEMORIAL RECORD

The Russians, thousands of men, women and children were carried off, thousands were murdered, about 20,000 buildings were demolished or burned down, and that during the second invasion alone, about 80,000 homes were plundered and destroyed. The last Russian expedition against Mamel likewise was nothing more than a savage raid, accompanied by atrocities of every description. The depredations contained in the supplementary give an eloquent but ghastly proof of the acts of violence and cruelty, which individual inhabitants suffered at the hands of the Russians.

The movable goods of the poor as well as of the wealthy were stolen, looted, or wantonly destroyed by the Russian troops in every conceivable way. The cattle and provisions were taken without payment of promissory certificates. Men and women had to give the covetous soldiers their last copper. The dwellings were searched often by one division of troops after the other, each soldier taking whatever took his fancy. Finally, homes, farm buildings and provisions were, without reason or purpose, destroyed by fire. The population, including women and children, were ill-treated on empty pretenses or without any reason whatsoever, although they did everything to satisfy the desires of the Russian soldiers as to lodgings and food. This ill treatment was particularly characterized by exquisite cruelty, for instance the male population of an entire community, the judge not excepted, were beaten with whips and threatened with death. Fugitives were shot down without further ado.

Above all, however, numerous citizens were murdered without any cause, often under terrible tortures or in presence of their relatives. Young men were shot, not because they had committed something, but because they were liable to military service. A transport of fugitives was suddenly attacked; the men were separated from the women and killed without procedure of any kind. A chief forester, escorting a troop of German convicts, was taken prisoner by Russian troops, brought before General Rennenkampf and probably in accordance with that general's infamous order to kill all German foresters, deliberately shot. The brutal lust of the Russian soldiers for murder did not stop even at old men, women and children. The murder of a little girl, about two or three years old, is a particularly horrible instance. Recently also is the case of an entire family which fell victim to the lust of murder of Russian soldiers. The man was spiked to the table, the child to the door, the breasts of the wife were cut off and her body eviscerated. In another instance a man and his wife were nailed by the tongue to a table, in which position they perished of hunger and loss of blood.

Unnumerable are the cases of brutal attacks upon women and girls. * * * Even women over 70 years of age were not spared. * * * Officers also gave themselves up to such misdeeds.

Other supplements disclose the atrocities perpetrated on German prisoners of war by Russian troops. Frequently those German soldiers taken prisoner were robbed, spat upon or otherwise mistreated. A Russian officer threatened German soldiers, who refused to betray their comrades with death, and actually ordered one of them shot. Russian troops placed German prisoners in narrow pits before their artillery positions with the evident intention of allowing them to be killed by German fire. Cossacks in riding past German prisoners of war, cut off their heads or wounded them, or by chopping off their limbs mutilated them. A German prisoner was cruelly bound to a sort of treadmill and left to starve. Three hussars were found hanged in a barn with their heads down and their noses and ears chopped off, so that they must have died in frightful agony.

Neither did the Russian hordes hesitate at the mutilation and murder of wounded German soldiers. Thus they tore the bandages off the wounded so that they would bleed to death; pierced out their eyes, cut off their tongues, ears, fingers and feet of others, or smashed in their skulls. In many instances atrocities took on the very character of fiendish torture. Thus a prisoner, slightly wounded, who was pinned to the wooden floor of a veranda by a sword, which went through his mouth, had the flesh stripped off his entire forehead from the eyebrows down, while his fingers were cloven to the wrists; another, who had a fracture of the skull, was bound to a calf in a stable in such a way that the animal would have to touch the uncovered brain with its mouth at every least movement. "The most terrible thing of all, though, is an order from the Russian general staff, found on a Russian officer of high rank, which commanded that all the male inhabitants able to work from boys of ten years upward, to be driven before the storming columns; this atrocious order whereby the Russian commander in chief has placed his name on the pillory for all time, was evidently made with the intention that the German soldiers, in order to meet the attack of the Russians, should have to shoot down their own compatriots. "The Imperial German government believes it should stigmatize before all the world this barbarous behavior of the Russian troops, defying as it does every law of warfare and humanity, and it hereby most vigorously and solemnly issues protest against these atrocities, which are indeed the disgrace of the 20th century."
